

2018-2019 ALPHA PI MU SCHOLARSHIPS

The Alpha Pi Mu (APM) Named Scholarships are authorized by the Constitution of APM Association. We have five $1,000 Named Scholarships. These scholarships will be made to outstanding APM members according to overall qualifications of the applicants and specific requirements of each scholarship. The general criteria for each of the named scholarships are the same as those for initial consideration for APM membership: scholarship, leadership, sociability, ethicality and widespread interests.

The S. Balachandran Scholarship was established by Dr. Balachandran to recognize service to Alpha Pi Mu. Undergraduate students only.

The Robert and Jean Dryden Service Scholarship was established in memory of Robert D. Dryden, and includes the requirement that the applicant has served APM and/or the industrial engineering profession. Undergraduate students and Graduate students may apply.

The Wolter J. Fabrycky ISE Scholarship was established to emphasize the systems aspect of industrial engineering, and includes the requirement that the applicant's interests are consistent with the INCOSE designation of domain-centric systems engineering. Undergraduate students only.

The Paul E. Givens Diversity Scholarship was established in memory of Paul E. Givens, and includes the requirement that the applicant has contributed to diversity on campus through support for underrepresented students. Undergraduate students only.

The John L. Imhoff Globalization Scholarship was established in memory of John L. Imhoff, and includes the requirement that the applicant has demonstrated globalization activities, cooperation and understanding through leadership and related initiatives. Undergraduate students only.

The following general requirements must be met for the above-named scholarships:

- 1) The applicant must be currently enrolled in an industrial engineering curriculum on November 15 and the following March 1. The applicant must have been initiated into APM by December 31.
- 2) The application must contain the substantiating information on the official application form. Additional materials or alternate application forms will not be considered.
- 3) The application must include the names of the applicant, department head and the APM faculty advisor.

Chapters with more than 30 active members may submit up to three applications, chapters with 16 to 30 active members may submit up to two applications and those chapters with fewer than 16 active members may submit one application. The applications will be evaluated by the APM awards committee of the Executive Council and the named scholarships will be announced by March 1.

Each chapter is responsible for distributing and submitting the completed application forms to the faculty advisor. The faculty advisor and department head are to act as the chapter screening committee and select the successful applicants if more than the eligible number of applications is submitted.

The faculty advisor is responsible for forwarding the appropriate number of applications to the APM National Office (office@alphapimu.com) no later than November 15.
